INTRODUCTION

This second issue of the series "International Communist Movements" covers the period 1 May 1948 - 1 September 1948. Individual travel movements occurring in the preceding period but reported too late for inclusion in the first issue, are listed under the individual's name in Section B. Addenda to the meeting section of the first issue are appended to this report in Section C. Abbreviations used are set out in Section D.

A. MEETINGS

The current period is characterized by the frequency of meetings of front organizations. Out of 51 meetings listed, 21 were meetings of international front organizations and/or national front organizations attended by foreign delegates. First place among the international fronts is again retained by the World Federation of Democratic Youth (WFDY) and its affiliates which held the following meetings:

International Congress of Union of French Republican Youth	6-8 May 48 Lyon, France
Executive Committee/International Union of Students	21 May 48 Bucharest, Rumania
Congress of Free Austrian Youth	12-19 May 48 Vienna, Austria
Council of Youth of Balkan Countries	15-16 June 48 Belgrade, Yugoslavia
World Federation of Jewish University Students	14 July 48 Czechoslovakia
Polish Youth Unity Congress	14 July 48 Breslau (Wroclaw), Poland

Executive Committee/WFDY

26 July 48
London, England

Southeast Asia Section of International Student Service (unconfirmed)

August 48
New Delhi, India

International Conference of Working Youth (WFDY)

8-18 August 48
Warsaw, Poland

A new international front organization entered the field during the period covered, viz., the World Congress of Intellectuals held in Warsaw, 25-28 August 1948, which decided to set up a "Permanent Committee in Defense of Peace" in Paris. Attended by a great number of European and non-European Communist and fellow-travelling intellectuals, the importance of the Congress is illustrated by the fact that it was organized by Jerzy BOREWSKI, an alternate member of the Politburo of the Polish Workers Party and former Comintern employee. Designed mainly as a propaganda weapon against the "war-mongering" USA, the Congress and its Permanent Committee may be added to the various pressure instruments through which the Communists in control hope to generate the widest possible antagonism against a war with the Soviet Union. Meetings similar to the Warsaw Congress are slated to be held nationally, e.g., in the United States and in Latin America.

In general, a further increase in international front meetings may be expected in the nearer future, and possibly the appearance of other, new front mechanisms. The CIEU and with it the international Communist movement is today operating under the assumption that a war against the Soviet Union threatens in the not too distant future - the organization of peace fronts is a standard device of Communist propaganda in "defense of the USSR."

The most significant meeting during this period was the Cominform meeting, presumably held from 21-24 June 1948 in Sinaia near Bucharest. At this meeting the "resolution concerning the position of CF Yugoslavia" was made, and the conflict between CIEU and the leadership of Yugoslavia, still unresolved, was brought out in the open. Prior to the meeting the CIEU had attempted to "correct" the policy of CF Yugoslavia by direct correspondence and individual contacts, notifying other Cominform Parties of this procedure. The Rumanian session was apparently called on short order, and indications of an impending Cominform meeting became apparent only after several movements of high European Party leaders were reported. These leaders converged first on Irague where, according to one report, a preliminary Cominform meeting was held. In general, no evidence is available yet showing the procedure by which Cominform meetings are called and who precisely (CISU ? Cominform Secretariat ?) notifies the Cominform Parties. It is also not known upon what principles the delegates to a Cominform meeting are selected by the affiliated Parties. So far as can be judged there are no permanent delegates as yet, and Cominform meetings are not always attended by the same individuals. Under these circumstances the only feasible method for anticipating Cominform meetings consists in the immediate reportage of information on the travel movements of all European Party leaders. Various other Cominform meetings were allegedly held during the period covered, but no supporting evidence is available.

B. TRAVEL

In general, the heaviest concentration of traffic, both incoming and outgoing, occurred at Irague. However, no significant assemblage other than the reported meetings, has been established. To a certain extent the comparatively heavy incidence of traffic at Irague may be accounted for by the fact that Irague is a convenient stopover for travellers going to or coming from the USSR and satellite countries.

More specifically, several items concerning travel routes and travel techniques may be noted:

1. Travel route from Latin America to Europe. In August 1948 Flavio Bravo (CI Cuba) reportedly (see Section B, #128) travelled by air from Havana to Trinidad. At Trinidad, he boarded Air France for French Africa where visas for France were readily available because of Communist infiltration of the local French authorities. The main object of this route seems to be to avoid the US when en route to Europe from Latin America.

2. Motor travel of CP Austria officials from Austria to satellite countries. Requests for travel out of Austria do not clear through regular channels. Soviet officials in Vienna issue special certificates and notify the Soviet officer in charge of the border control unit of the names and car license numbers of the Austrian Communists. A few minutes before the car is due, the Austrian policeman on duty at the border-crossing is instructed to leave his post and the Soviet official there personally checks the car through.

3. Travel to satellite countries from Austria. It is reported that the Second Secretary of the Soviet Political Representation in Vienna issues special Russian permits which eliminates the necessity for visas signed by the Austrian Government. Under a reciprocal agreement of the satellite governments themselves, this permit is good for any satellite country without additional visas. These special passports are issued only to important Communist functionaries.

Supporting evidence and reliable information of this type is urgently needed.

Among the more interesting individual travel movements of the period is the journey of the Indonesian Communist MUKSO (Section B, #301), a member of the Executive Committee of the Communist International in 1928 and a member of the Praesidium of the Comintern in 1928 and 1929. He apparently remained in the USSR until 1948 when he arrived (via Irague) in Indonesia (20 August) together with SURIJNO, a representative of the Indonesian Republican government in Irague. Shortly after his arrival, MUKSO assumed the leadership of a revolt against the city of Madiun in Java, the mechanics of MUKSO's return are of some interest.

The following individual movements listed in Section B need to be confirmed and/or more fully covered.

Resolutions were passed on the defense of peace, national freedom, the fight for democracy and the fight for the well-being of the people. Sven Linderot was re-elected party chair- man over some opposition. According to one report there were few secret sessions at the Congress. At one meeting, however, the Swedish affiliation to the Cominform was brought up by Revai (Hungary) who claimed CI Sweden should join the Cominform at once. He was supported by Fajon (France). After some discussion it was decided th the matter would not be pressed at that time and would be postponed until after the full elections.

CI Yugoslavia itself had refused to send representatives to this meeting. The official statements brought out that the conflict between CISU and CI Yugoslavia antedated the Cominform meeting by several months. From March 1948 on, CISU had sent several letters to the CC/CI Yugoslavia demanding a change in policy, and had also notified directly the other Cominform parties of the pending conflict. The meeting in Rumania was apparently called by CISU when it had become obvious that CI Yugoslavia refused to yield to CISU, and that political ostracism and pressure by all Cominform parties were needed to achieve the desired results. . . In so far as the evidence for the Sinaia meeting is concerned, we note that we must rely on the official statements from which we took the list of attending delegates. From our own sources we learned that several delegates converged upon Irague before the presumptive date of the meeting in Rumania. As we do not have any active evidence, except Cominform statements, that the meeting was actually held in Rumania, particular attention may be paid to one report which stated that a preliminary Cominform meeting was

S. (Politburo) For the record of individual travel, starting around 14 June leading European Communists seemed to be converging on Prague. Duclos and Servin (CF France) left Paris 13 or 14 June for an "eastern capital". Togliatti and Secchia (CF Italy) departed from the Rome airport 17 June for an unknown destination but a later report stated they were in Prague on 18 June. On 19 or 20 June, Jakob Derman (CF Poland) left Warsaw probably for Prague. Rakosi (CF Hungary) left Warsaw by train 19 June apparently changed to automobile at the Czech border and was reported to be going to Prague. Rudolph Slansky (CF Czechoslovakia) was noted to be absent from the Capital from 19-21 June. Zhdanov (CISU) was reported to have left Moscow sometime between 14-19 June. There were several Communists who were not listed as official

Fadecov (CISU) and Ilya Ehrenburg made vitriolic and belligerent anti-American speeches with which the delegates for the most part seemed to agree. Professor Taylor, Oxford historian, answered the sharp attack and reminded Ehrenburg that the USSR did not win the war singlehanded, and Julian Huxley also tried to refute the Communist "line". Rogge brought a message from Wallace, and Nathan brought a message from Einstein which was never read but an old one was misinterpreted to express support. Einstein protested publicly and said the letter was written before he realized the political affiliation of the Congress. The Congress decided to set up a permanent committee in Paris to be called the "International Committee in Defense of Peace", composed of: Amado, Jorge (Sec Gen/CI Brazil) Neruda, Pablo (CI Chile) Lukarevsky, Jan (CI Czechoslovakia)

(Chinese Democratic League)	This meeting was reported in S-Memo- randum #36 and information since received has seemed to conflict with the earlier reports. It is impossible to identify the delegates as Communist or non-Communist in many instances. After the first two days of the conference the group split on policy and Bose (India) led one group (anti-Communist) out and announced they would hold sessions elsewhere. These sessions were later cancelled, presumably for lack of support. It is known that the security police took great interest in the Conference. It was reported that instructions were received from Moscow as to the matters to be discussed, but just who brought these orders is unknown.
